Local Church To Have Centennial Program Sunday

Trinity Lutheran Congregation Planning All-Day Celebration Here

HISTORY IS GIVEN

Dr. Troutman, Pastor, Came Here in 1898

Trinity Lutheran church, E. Mound-st, will observe its centennial with an all-day celebration of the event next Sunday. The church's first pastor, Rev. A. B. Little was called in May, 1831.

Although the complete program has not been announced it is expected services will be held morning, afternoon and evening at the church.

BEGAN IN 1811

It was in the early part of 1811 that the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Pennsylvania delegated Rev. Jacob Leist to organize Lutheran congregations in central Ohio. This pioneer preacher conducted his first services in Circleville, August 28, 1811. Among the heads of Lutheran families who assisted Rev. Leist in establishing a congregation here were Jacob Zeiger, George Zimmer, Samuel Watt, Philip Zeiger, Jacob Zeiger, Jr., John Valentine, Peter Apple, Valentine Keffer, Peter Tres, Heinrich Tres, William Moyer, Peter Herbster, Heinrich Ely, Father Try, Anthony Weaver, John Row, M. Earnhardt and others. There were no records preserved perceding 1831.

It was in 1931 that Rev. Little was called to serve. Under his pastorage, in the year 1832, the corner stone for the church was laid, but the structure was not completed during his regime. He resigned after serving two and one-half years. Feb. 23, 1834, Rev. J. A. Roof was extended a call. It was during his administration that the church edifice was finally completed and dedicated in 1839. Rev. Roof served the Lutheran people of this community for the Word and Sacraments for 21 years in the German and English languages.

Two years after the resignation of Rev. Roof in 1857, Rev. Joel Swartz of Virginia became pastor. During his pastorate a division took place in the congregation. This division was caused by the pastor refusing to subscribe to certain articles of the Augsburg confession. Rev Swartz succeeded in getting a following. Dissension arose in the congregation and after much unpleasantness and several years of litigation, the party claiming to be the original congregation decided to cease lawing, and built a church as soon as possible.

CHURCH BUILT

In June 1859, Rev C. Albrecht accepted a call but remained only until 1860, when Rev. John Wagenhals became pastor. During his pastorate the congregation obtained, by order of the court from the 'director of the town' a lot known as 'Presbyterian or public burying ground' and built a brick church and gave it the name Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church. The corner stone of the church was laid in 1865 and the edifice dedicated in 1866. In 1868, Rev. Wagenhals resigned his charge because of fail-

KIWANIS CLUB ELECTS CRIST AS PRESIDENT

Prosecutor to Succeed E. I. Gephart; Dunlap Selected Vice President

RENICK IS TRUSTEE

Members Hear Talk Concerning Ohio Welfare

Emmitt L. Crist, prosecuting attorney, was elected president of the local Kiwanis club to succeed E. I. Gephart, high school principal, at the annual election of officers Monday evening.

John H. Dunlap, Sr., was named vice-president of the club.

Other officers chosen are Tom A. Renick, district trustee; Clarence Helvering, Budd Harden, D. E. McBride, Russell Imler, Harry Denman and G. P. Hunsicker, directors.

The new officers will not be installed until January 1 but were elected ahead of time so they could become more acquainted with the duties of their offices during the coming state convention which convenes in Columbus Sunday evening.

PAROLE OFFICER TALKS

Members of the club heard an excellent talk by W. E. Grenell, of the state board of paroles, who described the many duties such an officer has. The speaker lamented the difficulties of the welfare department through its lack of funds and stressed the coming bond issue planned by the welfare department which will be placed before the voters of Ohio in November.

Mr. Grenell stated that the welfare department can furnish 3,700 additional state hospital beds, it can repair and fireproof buildings in which the 35,000 unfortunate wards of the state are now housed if each taxpayer as one of the six and one-half million citizens of Ohio will contribute one cent per month for 10 years by voting for the issue.

He cited the state penitentiary fire and the recent epidemic of typhoid at the Cleveland state hospital which prove the need of facilities which this bond issue would provide.

CITES CASES

The speaker cited a number of interesting cases with which he has come in contact and but for shortage of time could have elaborated much more on his interesting subject.

It was announced by President Gephart at the close of the election of officers that there would be no meeting next Monday evening because of the state convention in Columbus.

FARMERS RELEASE YOUTH FROM JAIL

NEW LONDON, Ia., Oct. 13—More stringent measures in dealing with Iowa's rebellious farmers loomed today as a consequence of the storming of the local jail by 500 embattled cattle owners.

Smashing doors and twisting bars, the mob over-ran the prisop and released Ronald Hart, 20, from his cell. The youth had been arrested for interfering with state veterinarians testing cattle in observance of the disputed bovine tubercular test law. He was one of a crowd of farmers who stood about and jeered at the veterinarians and the militia men protecting them.

JAPAN SPURNS LEAGUE OFFER

Demands for Protection of Nationals in China Expressed Today

WAR CLOUDS HANG

Chinese, Japanese Delegates Arguing

GENEVA, Oct. 13.—Japan threw down the gauntlet to the League of Nations this afternoon through her official correspondent, Kenkichi Yoshisawa. She flatly informed the league council that she will not withdraw from recently occupied zones in Manchuria until the security of her nationals is guaranteed to her satisfaction. At the same time she disclaimed ambition of territorial additions in Manchuria.

Yoshisawa's defiance was uttered during the extraordinary session of the league council called to consider the grave situation while the threat of President Chiang Kai-Seck of China to resort to war if necessary hung over the meeting like a cloud.

Dr Alfred See, Chinese delegate to the council, had presented his side of the controversy to the league this morning. The afternoon session had been reserved for the Japanese argument but it developed into a rapid fire exchange of views between the two far eastern delegates delivered in an atmosphere of utmost tension.

With the delegates listening to the bitter verbal debate, the opposing spokesmen seemed to be making no progress whatever in bringing an end to the conflict that threatened to precipitate a far eastern war.

SYNTHETIC BISCUIT PERFECTED BY GIRL

Professors Says 'Food Pill' Has Been Sought for Years by Scientists

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 13.—A synthetic cracker of vest pocket size and durable enough to last for months which will replace meat, bread, potatoes, carrots and spinach has been created by Miss Lavaughn Dennison of Wellsburg, Va., a co-ed at Ohio State University, it was learned here today

The girl concocted the "food pill" with the help of Dr. John F Lyman head of the department of agricultural chemistry, who declares it is the synthetic food invention which science has been seeking for years.

All the cracker lacks is vitamen C which is found in lettuce and cabbage and to make nourishment complete with the use of the crackers a helping of lettuce or cabbage will have to be added according to Miss Dennison's own explanation.

Fairfield-co Prosecutor Says Carper Boys Told Different Stories of Father

LANCASTER, Oct 13 — Two sons and a son-in-law were to be questioned here today by R. S. Cunningham, Fairfield-co prosecutor, in connection with the murder of Harvey Carper, 58, farmer of Whisler, Pickaway-co, whose armless body was found in a woods near here Aug. 11.

The men arrested Monday by Sheriff Gail Sesler, are Golden Carper, 20, and Fesco Carper, 19, sons of the victim, and William Lewis Day, 32, his son-in-law. Sesler says the trio told conflicting stories.

Iven Carper, a merchant of Whisler, has identified a photo of Carper's body as that of his brother.

FAVORABLE CROP YEAR NEARS END

Fine Weather Aids Farmers; Estimate Corn to Be 45 Bushels Per Acre

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 13—Helped by fine weather for farming operations which marked September, Ohio is closing one of the most favorable crop years on record, a report by the United States department of agriculture said today.

The present estimate of the corn yield per acre is placed at 45 bushels, which, the report said, "is next to the highest yield on record"

A 21 per cent increase over last year's crop is expected by potato growers, who estimate their yield will be 374 751 000 bushels.

The winter wheat yield was 30 bushels an acre which was the highest of any state and 7.5 bushels above the previous record of this state, according to the government estimate All Ohio fruits it was said, showed a production much above the average.

REFORMATORY TERMS GIVEN 3 PRISONERS

Richards, Cordell and Martindale Get 1—20, 1—15 and 1—15 Years in Jail

TWO DENY GUILT

Jury Trials Confront Mathewson, McNeal

Three prisoners were meted out sentences to the Mansfield Reformatory and two others are being held in the county jail after failing to give bond to appear for trial before the petit jury soon, following wholesale arraignment of prisoners indicated by the grand jury, before Judge J. W. Adkins Monday afternoon.

John Richards of Ross-co, indicted on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the Ohio Reformatory.

Edward Cordell, of near Columbus, who was indicted on a charge of breaking and entering Trego's Store at Commercial Point, also pleaded guilty and received a 1 to 15 year sentence in the reformatory at Mansfield.

Christopher Martindale, of Commerical Point, indicted for breaking and entering Kroger's S. Court street store here received the same sentence as Cordell.

All three prisoners will be taken to the Mansfield institution by members of the sheriff's office this week.

George W. Mathewson of Chicago, who was indicted on three counts, for obtaining money under false pretense pleaded not guilty and bond was fixed at $2,000 for each count, making a total of $6,000.

Mathewson is alleged to have swindled several Ashville and Circleville physicians, together with a large number of central Ohio residents on a "bogus" insurance proposition.

James McNeal of Ashville indicted on a charge of cutting with intent to wound Albert Van Fossen of this city pleaded not guilty and his bond was fixed at $500, which he failed to furnish.

Both of the latter prisoners will be given trials before a petit jury in common pleas court sometime soon. E. L. Crist prosecutor will represent the state.

WHEREVER it obtains the alliance between politics and police and racketeers must be a great encouragement to prudent living and thrift and a stimulus to shrewd investment. Public officials and police involved in the alliance seem to suddenly acquire a genius for saving all of their salary plus large sums pouring into their private coffers from sources known only to the alliance.

It is fortunate or unfortunate that the alliance has a baneful effect upon the memory of its devotees? It must be most embarrassing to those whose income is disproportionate to the services they render when for income tax or investigation purposes they cannot remember how they got a few extra hundreds of thousands and where they put this lucre for safe keeping.

Such financial idiosyncrasies have become common among gangsters, politicians and police captains. Al Capone is now on trial for forgetting to include a mere million or so in his income tax report. Investigations in Philadelphia, New York, Boston and Chicago have discovered the secret of financial success by looking into the bank accounts of inordinately prosperous policemen. And there is Sheriff Farley, Tammany leader in New York, who in seven years saved $360,000 on a salary ranging from $6,500 to $15,000 a year. One of Sheriff Farley's little eccentricities was the keping of $100,000 in cash in a tin box in his home.

These gentlemen can learn something from big business. Smart bookkeepers and income-tax lawyers could do as much for them as they do for more respectable income-tax dodgers.

Army Navy Charity Game

SWEET charity will exact sacrifices from us all.

There are the Army and Navy football boys. For one reason or another they refuse to play with one another until they hear the clarion call of charity and service. (The Army-Navy game was always referred to as the service game) when they, without hesitation, make the supreme sacrifice by facing each other on the gridiron—truly, under such circumstances, a field of honor.

Most magnanimous it was of the service teams when they condescended to stage one of the gridiron spectacles in New York last December for the benefit of the Salvation Army unemployment fund. They must have suffered the torments of hell during those four quarters of play, and think of the pride and principles they must have swallowed, else why have they not met in regular competition since 1927?

Sweet charity's voice has just been heard again above the faint whisper of good sportsmanship, so there will be another Army-Navy charity game in December either in New York or Philadelphia.

It is a fine thing that the two elevens can do so much for charity's sake. These games would be a "sell-out" if the two academies resumed football relations and restored their traditional gridiron classic as a benefit during the depression.

Does military etiquette always draw such a fine line of distinction?

Higher Distribution Costs

THE National Industrial Conference Board's analysis of occupational trends during the last 20 years presents an interesting and valuable picture of the effect of new economic factors and of shifting habits in our national life.

Most disappointing of its revelations is the comparison showing that the increase in employment was 3% less than the increase in population. No doubt mechanization of industry supplanting human hands with machinery largely accounts for this.

While employment as a whole has not kept pace with population, new industries show great gains in the number they employ. The automobile factories have increased their payrolls 505 percent since 1910. Agriculture has lost 10.4 per cent due to wider use of machinery and the abandonment of thousands of small unproductive farms. More extensive use of factory made materials explains the 14 per cent fewer workers in the building trades. The total employment increase for all mechanical and manufacturing industries was 32 per cent.

Of timely interest is the figure showing that the selling and trading occupations have increased the number they employ at a rate far in excess of the average for all occupations. Which substantiates the decline that stimulated business must bear a heavy burden in the form of higher distribution costs. One of the causes for economic stagnation is the excess of distribution costs over production costs.

THERE are many things we need in Circleville, but a few are vital and outstanding above all others.

We need stability - the will power to determine what is right and a determination to see that only that which is right prevails.

We need a spirit of unanimity—the ability and willingness to agree upon what we want and then go after it and get it.

We need agressiveness—for without agressiveness, indolence and stagnation will be our lot.

We need loyalty—for without loyalty we will be enriching commercial interests at distant points and impoverishing our people at home.

Some communities thrive and grow because of their natural advantages. Others are made only through the dogged energy and perseverance of their citizenship.

Ours will be what we make it, and we should make it all that we can.

Jumping at conclusions is said to be bad exercise.

Tell her she gets better looking every time you see her and she wants you to see her often.

Never ask a girl what she is thinking about. There are enough lies in the world already.

"The Mystery of Geraldine" by ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT BY COVICI, FRIEDE, INC., — DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

Geraldine Foster was hacked to death in a house on Peddler's Road, leased by her employer, Dr. Humphrey Maskell, and her nude body buried in a grave filled with tannic acid. Two women were seen leaving the doctor's office carrying bottles similar to those found near the grave. Mrs. Morgan, a neighbor, substantiates the doctor's statement that he was with her daughter, Doris, the day of the disappearance. Maskell claims there was a strange woman outside his office when he returned. Other suspects are Harry Armstrong, Geraldine's former fiance, and her brother, Bruce, who will receive her inheritance. Bruce is an adopted son whose father was a murderer. Dr. Maskell reports to Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt that Geraldine phoned him on January 5, ten days after her disappearance, requesting that he meet her, but failed to appear. The autopsy shows she was killed on December 24, and her body preserved by the acid to make it appear that death occurred within 48 hours. Maskell, accused, sticks to his story. His brother and sister-in-law, George and Natalie Maskell, call to see him, but are turned away. One of the women whom Maskell visited on Christmas Eve informs Colt that a woman phoned that day leaving the following message for the doctor: "Please come at once to Peddler's Road. Something terrible has happened." Doris Morgan reveals that Maskell left her and his chauffeur at a confectioner's while he delivered gifts.

CHAPTER XXVII.

THATCHER Colt closed his eyes. I could almost follow the rapid calculations he was making in the isolation of blindness that he loved to impose upon his vision when he was thinking quickly. Perhaps Checkles and the child had been left in the place long enough—I could see the dangerous implications of this disclosure. When Thatcher Colt opened his eyes, I could also see that he had his finger on the first weak link in the chain of Doctor Maskell's perfect alibi.

"What were you doing Doctor, when they were in the confectioner's?" he asked point-blank.

"I distributed seven presents in the neighborhood," replied the doctor promptly.

Damaging Evidence

"That's right," said Doris innocently. "He wasn't there when we were finished eating—we had to wait for him a long time."

Again Thatcher Colt closed his eyes and considered the importance of this anachronism. "We had to wait for him a long time,"—I could almost see the lightning of calculation, suspicion, leaping and flashing across the stormy sky of the Commissioner's thoughts.

For what reason we did not as yet know, Geraldine had gone to the house on Peddler's Road. From there she might have telephoned Mrs. Westock. This seemed all the more credible because only Geraldine would know all the places the doctor was planning to visit, and how to reach him. In answer to her summons, he might have left Checkles and Doris in the confectioner's and rushed off to kill her and get back. It was close figuring—but it could have been done. Such at least was the theory, inevitably suggested by this startling gap just disclosed in the doctor's itinerary.

And still the doctor smiled, as if, telepathically, he knew what was passing in the Commissioner's mind, and mine, smiling as if he exulted and rejoiced because he knew there was still something missing, before they could bind him to the crime.

"There are only seven more addresses on your list," remarked Thatcher Colt. "Were the seven presents you told us about the last?"

"Yes," said Doctor Maskell. "From here we went home."

"Can any one identify you as having delivered these seven presents?"

"No. By that time I was late. I hurried. I merely dropped them on hall tables. I saw no one."

"Yet you took an hour to deliver them?"

"I do not know how much time I took."

"Well, you must know this blows your alibi to smithereens."

Without another word, Thatcher Colt then sent Mrs. Morgan and Doris home in a taxicab. Burke went with them, agreeing to meet the Commissioner at Police Headquarters later in the afternoon.

Scene of the Crime

"No, Checkles," said the Commissioner, "drive us up to the house on Peddler's Road."

Checkles laughed, a low-pitched chortle of laughter, as he punched the auto siren with his nose and pulled the lever into gear.

"Peddler's Road!" he chuckled. "Whew!"

"You know, Doctor, when we found the body, it had a pillow case over the head, as if the murderer could not bear to look upon the dead face, after what he had done."

"Yes, certainly?" said Doctor Maskell, in a tone of inquiry.

"It was a pillow case with silken rosebuds embroidered on it. I could not find its mate in your bungalow. Do you happen to know what happened to the other one?"

"I know nothing of that," replied Doctor Maskell disdainfully.

"Ah, well," said Thatcher Colt, "eventually we will find out about that pillow case. Come in!"

The doctor removed his hat as he entered the door of his own little house. One glance at his face showed me that he was profoundly moved. He looked at the disorder, and at the detectives still searching in the house—they had been there all night and they were still there, ferreting every square inch, the same area gone over three times by three different men—

"My Mind cannot be shocked into a breakdown or fake confession," said Maskell.

I have seen a suspected man look down upon the scene of a crime, and remain quite unmoved; not by the quiver of a muscle or the flicker of a lash did he betray emotion. Yet that man was guilty. But I have also seen a suspected, really innocent man go into hysterics at the sight of a butchered body. The hysterical man was innocent, although he actually confessed to the crime.

This may make the whole process of "confrontation and return" seem a waste of time, but in a sufficient number of instances, a criminal cannot endure to look again upon his work. Often enough to make it worth while, he shrieks out his guilt at the top of his voice and gives all the needed confirming details.

It was not, as Thatcher Colt explained to me later, with any hope of unnerving the doctor by horror, that we were taking him back to Peddler's Road. Instead, my chief had the idea that some sentimental remembrance might unexpectedly upset the poise of Maskell—another onslaught on human nature, through emotion.

All the paths approaching Peddler's Road had been roped off and put under guard, and crowds of baffled and morbidly curious persons strained against the ropes around the base of the hill. Inside, reporters were buzzing and snooping for clues, and it seemed to me as if there were plainclothes men and patrolmen behind every tree. The search for clues was still going forward relentlessly.

Avoiding the crowds by approaching from the rear, we climbed the hill and as we approached the house, Thatcher Colt said to Maskell:

Nothing to Be Gained

"You can see, Doctor," said Thatcher Colt quietly, "that a great deal of blood was spilled. It spilled through the open trapdoor to the fireplace floor, and pooled in a hollow by the kitchen door. Isn't it extraordinary, how much blood there really is in a human body, Doctor Maskell? Your dissection practice partly prepared you for that, of course—but when you start to let it run out of a living person, there's a lot of it, isn't there, Doctor—like a red Niagara coming from sweet young veins and arteries."

Maskell was about to light a cigarette, but Thatcher Colt, with his hand on his shoulder, commanded his attention, and his eyes required an answer.

"Thatcher Colt," said Doctor Maskell, "I shall have to listen to you but my mind cannot be shocked into a breakdown, or fake confession, or anything else."

"No," agreed Colt. "The forthright, downright, outright methods of a simple policeman like myself may seem very crude to your preconceived notions of how this thing should be done. But I do know one thing—that reason is the certain method that can appeal to you, Doctor."

"Right!" agreed Maskell.

"You know there is a perfect case against you."

"I have been told that."

"Opportunity."

"No. I had no opportunity to do all this."

Theaters

AT THE GRAND

The problem of finding a story as "big" as Betty Compson's name, caused Radio Pictures executives to sign Martin Flavin, wellknown author, to write an original story called "Three Who Loved" now showing at the Grand Theatre.

The method Flavin used was interesting. He gathered material from all the 50-odd pictures in which Miss Compson had appeared. He selected her best performances and from these gained an idea of her versatility.

SUITED STORY TO STAR

With this information he set about writing a vehicle particularly adapted to the Compson type and talents. "Three Who Loved," a human interest story which is said to reverse usual movie formulas and upset plot traditions, is the result.

In the earlier sequences of the story, as Helga, the immigrant girl, one is reminded of Miss Compson's acting in "The Case of Sergeant Grischa."

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Men of the Sky," First National mystery romance of spy operations in the first years of the World War, comes to the Clifton Theatre tomorrow and Thursday. The locales of the exciting sequences are Baden, Paris, Berlin military headquarters and the plane spangled sky.

Jerome Kern, who did the beautiful musical setting and Otto Harbach who wrote the story, are recognized as the most successful team of entertainment makers of the day. The director is Alfred E. Green, who, according to a national poll was voted the finest director of talking pictures for 1929 and 1930, among his achievements being "Disraeli" and "Old English."

A superb cast portrays the intriguing characters of "Men of the Sky." Irene Delroy and Jack Whiting play the ill-fatd lovers, both of them spies. Others are Bramwell Fletcher, John Sainpolis, Frank McHugh, Edward Maxwell, Otto Matiesen, Lottie Loder, Armand Kaliz and Mirielle.

SURPLUS MAY BE SAVED BY DRYING

By drying many of the fruits and vegetables produced in the backyard garden or on the farm it is possible to reduce the cost of feeding the family, asserts V. H. Davis, associated with the department of horticulture at the Ohio State University.

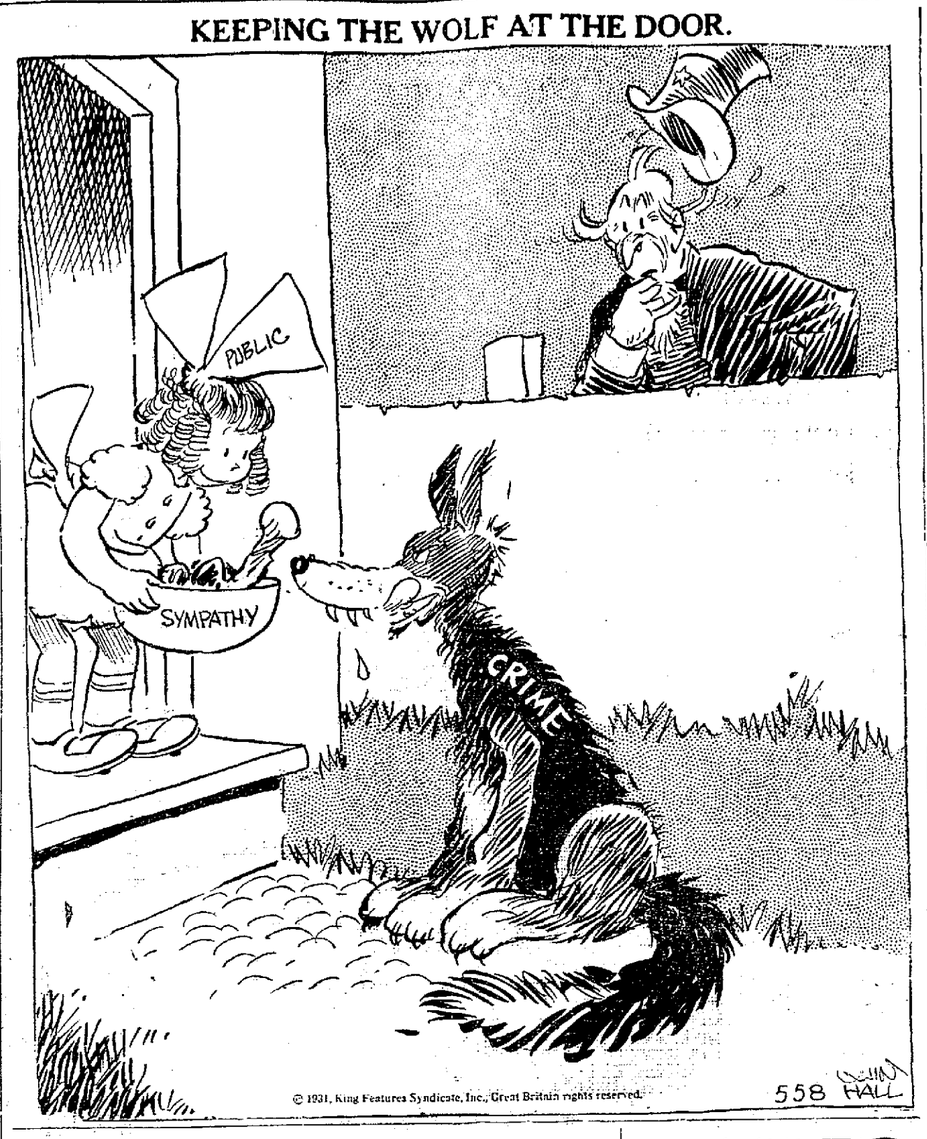
In many cases, he says the house wife will find it possible to do without special drying apparatus and to dry vegetables and fruits in the oven of the cookstove. The products to be dried should be spread thinly in baking pans or pie tins and these should be placed upon racks so that the water vapor driven off in the heating process may pass out. The five can be regulated so that the material will not be scorched.

Very satisfactory products are made in this way, and many households dry considerable quantities of fruits by exposing them upon boards or newspapers so placed about the stove that they are kept warm while the stove is in use.

When the amount of material is too small to justify the expenditure of time or money in providing a more elaborate drier, a simple device for suspending trays above the cookstove may be employed, Davis states. Such a device may be made of one or more trays about the size of the stove top.

Many people, he believes, will want to obtain complete information on the various ways of drying different kinds of products in the home. Such information may be obtained free of charge by writing for Farmers' Bulletin, number 984, called farm and home drying of fruits and vegetables. It is issued by the United States Department of Agriculture and will be mailed by the department of horticulture at the Ohio State University, Columbus, to those who desire a copy.

KEEPING THE WOLF AT THE DOOR.



Steady Weight Increases Health Gauge for Baby

The Infant Should Be Weighed Twice Weekly to Check On Its Progress, for Consistent Gain Is an Indication of Proper Nourishment and Health, Says Authority

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WHENEVER possible the infant should be breast fed.

But it is important to discontinue this plan of feeding if it does not serve its purpose. Sometimes babies do not thrive on mother's milk.

Dr. Copeland

It may be necessary to take the baby from the breast and give artificial feeding. Frequently there is lack of milk in the breast.

Increase in weight is the most accurate method of determining if baby is getting sufficient nourishment. If not, the infant will lose weight. Continued loss of weight is serious and requires immediate attention.

The infant should be weighed twice a week. This procedure should be continued until it reaches one year of age, and then it may be weighed once every month.

After the first week no child should ever lose weight, or remain stationary. During the first year a healthy baby should double its weight in six months and nearly triple it in twelve months.

It is not important that the gain in weight be rapid, but it should be gradual and steady. During the first six months there should be a weekly gain of five to six ounces. If the gain is not steady there is something wrong. This may be due either to the food or to the method of feeding.

I believe too many mothers overlook the importance of having a scale at home. Infants should be weighed on definite days and an accurate record kept of the weight.

Where such records are kept children receive adequate attention. Since this is a simple method of determining the child's welfare, it should be practised by all. I believe the purchase of an infant's scale a wise and just investment.

If satisfactory progress is not observed, talk with the family doctor. There may be the need of a change in the bottle mixture.

Babies are delicate things and respond quickly both to good influences and evil ones. Steady increase in weight is a good sign.

3.—Weak spells may be due to a number of different conditions. See your doctor for examination and definte advice.

• • •

A. J. R. J. Q.—What do you advise for constipation—the bowels move very irregularly, accompanied by pain in the back, etc?

2.—Would this condition account for the fact that I have a coated tongue and sour mouth as well as slight muscular pains throughout the body?

A.—Proper attention to the diet as well as regular exercise should help to correct these symptoms. Foor full particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2.—Yes, these are all indicative of sluggish elimination. Clear up the constipation and you will notice improvement.

• • •

Troubled Q.—What foods are rich in elements which go to make rich blood and increase the blood supply?

2.—What do you advise for chronic constipation?

A.—Fresh, green vegetables, milk, eggs, beef juice, liver will all tend to bring about the desired results. These foods should be included with the other staple foods in the daily diet.

2.—For particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

Mrs. W. W. Q.—What is the difference between leukocythemia and pernicious anemia? Is either contagious or curable? Is the spleen apt to be affected?

A.—The former is a condition where there is a permanent increase in the number of the white corpuscles and in pernicious anemia there is a diminution in the number of the red corpuscles. There is no specific cure but proper diet and general care should bring about increased comfort and relief. Yes. The doctor attending the individual patient should be the one to prescribe the necessary treatment.

CHINA BUYS COWS

VANCOUVER, B. C.—An order from China for 50 head of register Ayrshire cows has been received by the Ayrshire Breeders' Association. The cows are to be from two and a half years to six years old. Some time ago an order for ten registered cows per month was placed with the British Columbia Holstein Association by buyers in China. In the past few years some substantial orders for pure bred dairy cows have been received by breeders in B. C. from the Orient. The journey from Vancouver to the Far East does not affect the cattle in any way to their detriment.

Any member of the family of Elliott Moore, 131 S. Pickaway-st is invited to be a guest of The Herald to the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.

WOMEN: watch your BOWELS

What should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It just suits their delicate organism. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles.

It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients.

When you've a sick headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish; and at the times when you are most apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all drug stores keep it ready in big bottles), and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

When You
CAN'T QUIT

Fatigue is the signal to rest. Obey it if you can. When you can't, keep cool and carry-on in comfort.

Bayer Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Bayer Aspirin when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, it will often "save the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Perfectly harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it. No man of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses explained in the proven directions. From a grumbling tooth to those rheumatic pains which seem almost to bend the bones, Bayer Aspirin is ready with its quick relief—and always works. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Any nagging, needless pain.

Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross. They are of perfect purity, absolute uniformity, and have the same action every time. Why experiment with imitations costing a few cents less? The saving is too little. There is too much at stake. But there is economy in the purchase of genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets in the large bottles.

Sharkey Regains Favor Trimming The Big Primo

NEW YORK, Oct 13—Jack Sharkey basks again today in the sunshine of certain popularity because of his one-sided victory over Primo Carnera

Sharkey fought in the way he really can fight when the mood is upon him and the sometimes brilliant Bostonian glittered in his outing last night against the gigantic alien

But, in defeat, the Italian was not disgraced He showed almost unbelievable ability to soak up punishment. He demonstrated courage of fearless kind and even though he was hit hard enough and often enough to fell a dozen oxen he went down only once

NEARED KNOCKOUT

Sharkey today continued to insist that Carnera actually went down twice from one volley of punches and held to the opinion he should have been declared a knockout victor then and there

He ripped a left into Carnera's body in that fourth, followed with two mighty heaves to the chin, Primo went down in sections, a foot or two at a time. He made an effort to get up at four and seemed to have made the grade Then he toppled back but was soon back in fighting position again

Right ther Sharkey put on one of the acts that are typically Sharkeyish and nearly cost him the decision He rushed to Referee Gunboat Smith and demanded the decision, claiming that when Carnera swooned to the landscape the second time he was automatically a loser

Smith ignored his demands and ther Sharkey made a wild rush toward his corner and was halfway out of the ring when his manager, Johnny Buckley tossed him back

Sharkey suddenly realizing the error of his wild act, resumed fighting

'I don't see how Schmeling can duck me now,' said Sharkey today "I proved by beating Carnera that I'm entitled to another crack at the German. As far as Carnera is concerned I'll gladly say that he can take more punishment than any human I've ever met He is game to the core He is tough—tough—and tougher than concrete"

At the end of the eighth Sharkey had a slight margin but it was still anybody's fight. But soon the Italian, who had shown surprisingly form in the early rounds, began to weaken from Sharky's untiring left hand to the body and Sharkey found it easier and still easier to slam the chin and body targets presented by a somewhat floundering Carnera

Sharkey eased up in the thirteenth, conserving energy for a rally.

He kept stabbing his left into the Italian's amidships section in the fourteenth and opened up the fifteenth with a savage and relentless attack that sent Carnera staggering from one side of the ring to the other.

After every punch it seemed that Carnera could endure no more, but he weathered the blizzard of leather and was on his feet at the end, bloody, weary, shaky but grinning

SPARTANS IN HOME STAND

Play Yellow Jackets Then Go on Road When Destiny Will Be Known

PORTSMOUTH, O., Oct. 13—An erratic road team in the 1930 season, the Portsmouth Spartans when they met the Philadelphia Yellow Jackets Wednesday night will enjoy their last opportunity to forge their offensive into a worthy weapon for their coming eastern trip.

How successful the Portsmouth offensive proves in the tilt with Philadelphia will be the manner in which many of the Spartan plays will be finally judged by league scouts. In the Yellow Jackets the local aggregation has a dragon to slay worthy of the best Toledo Blade in the hands of any St. George.

Old heads at the grid game, the Philadelphia eleven led by Herb Joesting, All-American fullback from Minnesota and Morton Kaer, All-American quarterback from U. S. C. are expected to furnish opposition of a type that may prove more than the Spartan's desire.

GRIDDERS REST

Circleville high school's gridders were enjoying a respite this week with no game scheduled for Saturday. One half of the schedule has been completed with one victory and three defeats and Marysville, Westerville, Delaware and Hillsboro are yet to be met with Ashville possibly added to the tail-end of the schedule for a county championship match.

MERCHANTS LOSE

Circleville Merchants failing to show much of an offense, went down to defeat at Clarksburg Sunday by a 12-6 score.

Gaines Hill made the touchdown for the locals.

RADER IS ILL, MADER WINNER

Sickness of Golfer Causes Forfeit to Contestant in Club's Golf Tournament

Earl 'Biddy' Rader, one of the most consistent golfers of the Pickaway Country Club, was forced to forfeit his semi-final match to Mack Mader, 1929 champion, because of illness. Rader has been suffering an attack of grippe and is not expected to be able to play golf for two weeks

Last year he was runner-up in the tournament and was expected to give Mader a tough fight for the right to enter the finals this year Mader and Rader were both paired in the lower bracket.

Paul Adkins defeated A. L. Wilder 2 up for the right to oppose Felix Caldwell

The final match of 36 holes is scheduled for next Sunday so much both the Adkins-Wilder match and that between the winner and Caldwell must be played this week.

CLARKSBURG WINS FROM MERCHANTS

Clarksburg's semi-pro football took the Circleville Greenbacks into tow at Clarksburg Sunday by a score of 12-6

Clarksburg pushed over the winning touchdown in the last 2 minutes of play After Hill, Circleville fullback had tied the score in the last period with a 20-yard end run down the sidelines Clarksburg came back strong but was soon forced to punt On almost the first play Steakman made a terrific tackle of Davis who fumbled. Wiesenshemer recovering for Clarksburg on the Circleville 8-yard line. When line plunges got them no-where Clarksburg resorted to the air for the touchdown Adams passed to Wickersheimer who carried it over Drop kick for point failed

Clarksburg's other touchdown came in the third quarter when Hanchar ran 17 yards around right end for a touchdown Placekick for point failed Other features of the game are as follows A 2 yard [illegible] Clarksburg's right end Nelson in the first quarter another 35 yard gallop by Nelson in the fourth a 12 yard [illegible] Anderson and Hanchar to Wickersheimer for the touchdown effort

Famous Stage Tradition Introduced to Aviation

"Show Must Go On," So Betty Lund Is On Air Pageant Program, Though Widowed by Plane Crash Only a Few Days Ago.

BETTY LUND and FREDDIE LUND.

Despite the fact that her husband, Freddie Lund, was killed in a plane crash on October 4, at Lexington, Va., Betty Lund, famous barnstorming aviatrix of Troy, Ohio, has resolved to carry on alone. The pair had teamed up since their marriage at Los Angeles in a stunt flying partnership and was well known and popular wherever aerial calisthenics featured a fair. Betty and Freddie had been entered in the air pageant at Charlotte, N. C., but when the officials of the meet heard of the tragic crash which resulted in Freddie's death they removed the names of the Lunds from the program. But Betty has brought the tradition of the show business into aviation and is carrying on. She is back on the program, as she believes that is just as Freddie would have it

Conklin's Sport Sparks

NEW YORK — Although Sun Bean tops the list of Money-winning horses and Twenty Grand has been moving rapidly up in the list this year, both of these current favorites are still behind Exterminator's record in one respect "Old Bones" won 29 stake races, more than any other American horse.

Exterminator was one of the iron horses of the turf Another was a nag named Disturbance, which made a specialty of winning "turf double-headers' in the early eighties when thoroughbreds were allowed to compete in two races on the same day. Within a space of five weeks, Disturbance participated in three double-headers He made a clean sweep on two occasions In the third instance he lost both ends of the double bill, as we say in the press coop

OHIO U. MEETS SIMPSON TEAM

Iowans to Invade Ohio University Field Saturday; Denison Beaten

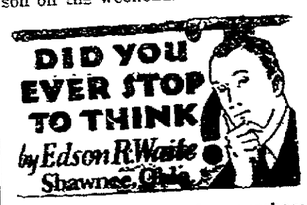
ATHENS Oct 13—The Ohio University Bobcats will play outside the Buckeye conference again when next Saturday they meet Simpson College of Indianola, Iowa, in Ohio Stadium

The strength of the foe may be indicated by the fact that they held the strong Iowa State Teachers teams to small scores and won decisively from Parsons

The Bobcats encountered stubborn resistance during the first half of their game with Denison last week, but in the [illegible] the Baptists took the ball from the Ohioan on downs and on other occasions forced them to punt

The Denison contest, however afforded an opportunity for the Green and White coaching staff to observe their reserve forces in action since every man who made the trip was at one time or another injected into the game except two cripples, Kepler and Sadosky.

Intensive drills and scrimmages are being engaged in by the Bobcats this week since Coach Don Peden and Line Coach Trautwein are taking every precaution against an upset at the hands of Simpson on the weekend.



The other day I made a purchase in a well stocked store and was waited on by the owner. Things looked quiet and I asked him about business He said it was rotten.

I asked him if he advertised in the local newspaper. He replied, "I do not think it advisable to incur any such expence during the present financial stringency."

Ye Gods and little fishes! Was there ever such nonsense uttered by a business man as a weak excuse for his own failure to help himself and his business?

Successful business men recognize the supreme importance of newspaper advertising They realize that advertising is a service due the citizens from whom they expect trade, and the better the service that service the more trade they attract

FEEDERS TO GATHER HERE

Farm Bureau Home is Scene of First of Series of Cattle Feeders Meetings

The first of a series of Steer Feeding schools for Cattle feeders through Pickaway and adjoining counties will be held at the Farm Bureau home on Main-st, in Circleville, next Thursday, October 15th, at 7:30 p. m.

Pickaway-co farmers derive approximately fifteen per cent of their income through beef production. Our bumper crop of corn and farm roughages indicate the seed of cattle as a means of economically converting these crops into profitable cash returns.

Max M. Scarff, a cattle feeder on an extensive scale, of Clarkco, will appear on the program to discuss the feeding methods used on their farms and the experiences which they have gained throughout their feeding operations. Max has charge of the livestock industry of the W N Scarff's Sons who operate a modern Nursery and Farm Seeds business on their 1500 acre farm at New Carlisle Ohio

L P McCann, beef cattle specialist. Ohio State University will present a review of the most recent experimental data on economic beef production These cattle Feeding Schools are conducted under the auspices of the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association, the Farm Bureau and the Ohio State University for the purpose of assisting Pickaway County cattle feeders in purchasing the most economic type of cattle to fit their farm and feeding requirements; to assist them in using the most economic combinations of feed, and to assist them in marketing their finished cattle most economically

The program will be presided over by H. S Lewis, county agent. The meeting will begin promptly at 7 30 p m., and close at 9 p m. Any cattle feeder who is interested is welcome to attend

ASHVILLE SCHOOL NOTES

The introduction of the Gregg Writer (Shorthand Magazine) in this year's class in stenography brings the Commercial Department of Ashville high school a notch nearer the ideal of the up-to-date department. Students in the advanced section of the commercial course are becoming very much interested in this new and novel method of learning to read and write shorthand notes. The Gregg Writer contains many pages of well written shorthand notes in the form of stories, dictation material, jokes, editorials, etc., and has a pronounced tendency to create and maintain interest in the stenographic field of commercial work. Many schools all over the United States are using the Gregg Writer to supplment the regular drill work and are finding it a great aid in the development of stenographers.

The Sunshine 4-H Food Club of Ashville took their exhibits to the Pumpkin Show on Wednesday afternoon. The exhibits consisted of a record book, kept by each member, a poster and a plate of four sandwiches. The club has eighteen members, and each member took an exhibit. Mrs. Roger Hedges, home economics teacher, is in charge of this club.

Lucile Hedges and Ruth Courtright of the seventh grade were in the 4-H Club demonstration at the Pumpkin Show Thursday

Miss Alice J. Laughead, assistant fire drill held for her benefit the Wednesday morning During a fire drill held for her benefiit the building was completely vacated in a minute and a half

The fifth grade has been studying soils. They have green sand, white sand, clay, clay loam and loam. They planted barley, timothy and wheat. The timothy sprouted first. Nothing seems to grow in the green sand

The Circleville Pumpkin Show proved to be more attractive last week than school to some of our pupils, and our attendance record dropped accordingly. Parents and pupils should realize that even one day's unexcused absence may materially affect the pupil's scholastic standing, as it is a well-known fact that those who can least afford to be absent are the ones who are out the most.

The second grade is working this week on an interesting project in connection with the Pumpkin Show. They have made clowns, vegetables and pumpkins, the last of which will be used in decorating the room for Hallowe'en.

Several members of the high school orchestra played with the Ashville band at the Pumpkin Show last Friday.

The Ashville high school has elected the following officers to have charge of the Athletic Association: President, Dick Wills; Secretary, Annie Boone; Treasurer, Betty Baum; Board of Control, Junior Courtright and Donald Cloud

In connection with the study of land forms the sixth grade is planning an excursion into the country to the purpose of finding minature forms of islands, capes, straits, peninsulas and deltas.

In an effort to promote better English in every-day conversation, the Sophomore class has organized a Better English Plan. The class period each Monday is devoted to the study and correction of common errors in speech, Each week there is a committee of three to report, in a strictly impersonal way any faulty English heard in the halls and about the building as the errors are read the class makes the necessary corrections. Already we see some improvement in the students They are beginning to at least notice their mistakes The first step is made when they become "English conscious."

BROTHERHOOD TO MEET

The Lutheran Brotherhood will have a supper, on surprises Thursday when G C. Griffith is in charge of the program. I A. Cydrall chairman of the lunch committee and will be aided by W L. Any member of the family of H. O Pile, Edison ave. is invited to be a guest of The Herald to the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.

Way to Get At a Cold Is Through the Bowels
As soon as you catch cold, the pores close, perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like cascara. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascarets.
Remember this when you catch cold; whenever breath is bad, tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.
Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime?

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO

Proposing to amend the constitution of Ohio by adopting a section to be designated as section 2b of Article VIII of said constitution for the purpose of authorizing the contracting of debts of the state in an aggregate amount not exceeding seven million five hundred thousand dollars to supply funds for the construction and repair of buildings, the equipment and furnishing thereof, and the purchase of land for the use of the welfare institutions of the state, and to that end authorizing the issuance of bonds and directing the levy of taxes sufficient to pay the interest and principal thereof

Amount of Bonds Authorized to be Issued $7,500,000

Maximum Rate of Interest 5% Per Annum

These Bonds to be Issued between November 4, 1931, and July 1, 1932.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio three fifths of all the members elected to each house thereof agreeing thereto

Section 1 There shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Ohio for their approval or rejection at the general election on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November 1931 a proposal to amend the constitution of Ohio by adopting a section to be designated as section 2b of article VIII of said constitution reading as follows

ARTICLE VIII

Section 2b "The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund" created in this article shall forthwith upon the adoption of this amendment, proceed to issue and sell at public sale, from time to time under such regulations as they may by order promulgate, for not less than par and accrued interest, not to exceed the total sum of seven million five hundred thousand dollars of bonds of the State of Ohio bearing interest at not to exceed five per cent per annum, payable semi annually and maturing in ten equal annual instillments commencing not later than the first day of January 1934 and not earlier than eighteen months after the issuance of any such bonds. No such bonds shall be issued to mature later than the first day of January 1943 The proceeds of the sale of such bonds shall be paid into the treasury of the State of Ohio to the credit of a fund hereby to be known as "The State Welfare Rehabilitation Fund" Said fund shall be expended without appropriation by the General Assembly, but subject to approval and allotment by the emergency board, for the purpose of supplying funds as determined by the director of public welfare, for the construction and repair of buildings, the equipment and furnishing thereof and the purchase of land for the use of existing or new welfare and penal institutions of the state and for no other purpose. For the payment of the interest on such bonds and the installments of principal thereof, as the same mature, and to meet the expenses of administration hereof, any fund or funds in the state treasury, available by law for appropriation for the purposes for which said bonds shall have been issued shall without appropriation by the General Assembly, be and are by the order of the said Sinking Fund Commissioners of the Sinking Fund" to the extent necessary but the General Assembly may make appropriations for such purposes out of any such funds, which appropriations so made shall be first exhausted before any unappropriated moneys shall be so withdrawn The full faith and credit of the State of Ohio are hereby pledged for the payment of said bonds Upon the retirement of all of said bonds and the payment of all interest thereon The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall render a final report to the General Assembly The provisions of this section shall be self-executing

Section 2 The secretary of state in the manner provided by law shall prepare the form of the ballots to be used at the election mentioned in section 1 hereof for the submission of the proposal thereon provided for in said section shall distinctly state the amount of bonds proposed to be issued, the purpose for which they are to be issued, the maximum rate of interest thereof and the purposes for which the same are to be issued

Adopted June 25 1931

No Depression Claims "Texas"

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 13—Take it from Texas Guinan—there isn't any depression, and prohibition is what caused it

The wise-cracking queen of the nightclubs assumed the role of a prophetess today and assured suckers out here in the country that the depression stories are the bunk.

In the next sentence, however, she declared that "the country's serious economic problems "could be solved by repeal of the 18th amendment:

'You boys all have your hands in your own pockets—there can't be any depression," she told newspaper men who visited her.

"Now that Mr. Hoover has announced plans for a credit corporation, everything will be dandy In fact, it's dandy already The Cardinals won the world's series and one of our girls married a wealthy coal mine operator over in Pennsylvania the other day."

One thing the public never seems to profit by is the art of failing demonstrated in athletic contests ing health and advanced age having served for eight years.

The responsibilities of the pastoral office then befell Rev M B Lenker, who entered upon his duties in 1868 Unfortunately contention arose in the congregation on account of synodical differences and a number of families withdrew Rev Lenker found it necessary to resign. The church was closed for sometime and conditions were rather discouraging, when on Feb 13, 1871, Rev. E L S Tressel was chosen as spiritual leader Under his influence and managament the church took on new life, but Rev. Tressel's stay was brief he followed a call to Baltimore, Md. in 1874

Rev. A. H Schulze was the next minister to serve the charge His reame began in October, 1874. His failing health made it difficult for him to comply with the demands of his people yet he fulfilled the position until 1879. Rev. Schulze was followed by Rev. A Pflueger who entered upon his duties in 1879 and continued until the end of 1881

It was early in 1882 that Rev. J H Schneider became pastor and his service lasted for nearly 12 years During his pastorage the interior of the church was beautified, the pipe organ purchased a church school established and a school house built This church school was maintained under difficulties but was an excellent thing for the congregation.

SCHOOL ABANDONED

In 1894, S. W. Mautz, then a student in the Theological seminary, was called to administer "The Means of Grace." In 1895 G. C. Schaub resigned his position as teacher in order to enter Capital University and prepare for the ministry. The congregation called eight teachers and the call was eight times declined Unfortunately the school was discontinued. Rev Mautz served the congregation until 1898

In May of the same year, Rev. G J. Troutman received and accepted a call extended to him by the Circleville parish and entered upon his duties in August 1898. In May 1901, the congregation decided to build a new church as soon as the necessary funds could be raised. The committee appointed to raise funds reported favorably. The last service in the old church was held Feb. 29, 1902 At this service the Lord's Supper was celebrated and a larger number communed than at any time in the history of the congregation at that time. The corner stone of the new church was laid July 20, 1902, and the edifice dedicated July 19, 1903, practically free of debt

BUILD PARISH HOUSE

In 1927 the congregation resolved to erect a parish house for the growing Sunday school and flourishing society activities The building was dedicated February, 1928.

In May, 1929, Rev G L. Troutman was caled as assistant pastor who, with his father, is now serving the congregation

Trinity Lutheran congregation numbers near 1,200 persons, over 900 communicants and 475 Sunday school pupils.

FIGHTING IS ON

COLUMBUS, O. Oct 13—The fight against fighting goes on.

Even though George W Rightmire, Ohio State University's president, believes that compulsory military education is a "closed incident" the undergraduate and graduate members of the Liberal club at the University will meet Thursday to discuss a series of forums on compulsory drill.

Miss Mary W Hillyer, associate of Bryn Mawr College and member of the executive board of the League for Industrial Democracy, will be present at the meeting to speak on "College Radicals in a Realistic World."

REFUSE TO WORK

ZANESVILLE, O, Oct 13—Many people out of work now don't want to work anyway, Chief of Police Joseph Petet said today, and explained why he made the statement.

Seventy-five men, notified by the chief to report for work picking apples under guidance of Community Chest officials, all scorned his offer, he said.

WHOPPER FISH TALE

REDONDO BEACH, Cal.—After a 23-hour battle with a 700-pound swordfish which towed them 32 miles out to sea before it weakened and was landed, Capt. Walden Simpson, Roy Simpson and H. S. Weddington returned to port with a thrilling tale The trio was fishing in the waters off Redondo Beach when the giant swordfish struck the bait and jerked the men from their feet The men held on as the fish hauled their boat at terrific speed through the water Coast guard cutters were searching for them when they returned, wet and exhausted, with their prize lashed to the boat.

Mrs. J. C. Murray and son, Robert, of Mt. Sterling and Mr. and Mrs Russel Shaffer and son of Columbus, have returned home after visiting with Mr. and Mrs. J H Helwagen.

Women of Pioneer Days Topic Discussed by Monday Club

The Monday Club held its regular meeting in the club room, on Monday evening. At this session four new members were elected to active membership in the club.

Mrs. Glenn Nickerson had charge of the program and introduced Mrs. Robert Musser, who told of "Priscilla Alden and her Contemporaries." A manuscript written by Governor Bradford has been the source of much valuable service concerning the Pilgrims, their famous voyage on the Mayflower and finally their life in New England Governor Bradford says their first act was to fall on their knees and thank God. The Pilgrims, though tillers of the soil in their English homes, were not of the peasant type for they were close students of theological problems.

Their dress was much like the Quakers, their food very simple, corn being their chief reliance. We all know the story of Priscilla Mullin's two lovers and her "why don't you speak for yourself, John?" Mary Chilton was another prominent woman aboard the Mayflower and Anne Hutchinson, a woman of more than ordinary intelligence in that day."

Next Miss Carrie Johnson told of "The Frontierman's Wife." No greater or more willing sacrifices in pioneering have ever been made than were made by frontiermen's wives and mothers. She related the stories of Mary Draper Inglers, who was captured by the Indians, of Elizabeth Zane who carried gunpowder to the men and of our own beloved Lincoln's family of father, mother and two children, Abe and Sarah.

Miss Jeannette Reichelderfer had as her subject "The New England School Marm." "In Massachusetts as early as 1642 most communities had a Dame School and the teacher, the first New England School Marm, whose qualifications were ability to know what she taught and to maintain order.

"Women teachers were not formally recognized as teachers until after the revolution. The year after the revolution came the District School, where the teacher "boarded 'round" and received from four to ten dollars a week, some of the poorer districts as low as one dollar per week and there is one case on record, where a woman in Connecticut received sixty-seven cents per week.

"Did not the dame school teacher and the district school teacher with their simple equipment meet the needs of their day as well as the well trained teacher in New England meet needs today?

"The same feeling that now prompts the love for an ancient chair or chest of drawers makes us prize the customs of by-gone times as age gives them a worth while rarety."

TILLAGE TOOLS ARE EXHIBITED

One of the interesting exhibits at the Pumpkin Show was the line of Better Tillage Tools now being manufactured in Circleville by the Midwest Farm Equipment Co.

This exhibit was in charge of R. G. Peters, 621 N. Court-st, who has entered into a contract with the Midwest Farm Equipment Co. under the terms of which Mr. Peters assumes charge of the sale of the company's products in the counties of Pickaway, Madison, Fayette, Fairfield, Ross and the south half of Franklin-co.

Mr. Peters had on display the complete line of goods manufactured by the Midwest Co., which comprised a large combination tillage tool which is intended to do the work formerly done by harrow's culti-packers, floats, etc., a new type of spring tooth harrow which goes under the name of Kant-Klog Spring Tooth Harrow, a new type of one horse cultivator; mulching and weeding tools to be attached to all types of cultivators and spring tooth harrows, and hand garden tools of several types.

Mr. Peters was very enthusiastic over the reception which the farmers at the Pumpkin Show gave to Better Tillage Tools.

Mr. Peters also stated that during the past two weeks more than 40 leading farmers and business men of Circleville have interested themselves financially by becoming stockholders in the Midwest Co.

CORN HUSKING MEET POSSIBLE

The State Corn Husking contest which is being conducted through the Ohio Farmer will be held in Miami-co. on Nov. 4th. To be eligible to enter this contest, Pickaway-co corn huskers must be selected through County Corn Husking elimination contests.

Have we, throughout this Scioto Valley, corn huskers who wish to match their metal with the best corn huskers throughout Ohio?

Mr. Corn Husker, if you wish to compete, write to your County Agent at once. The county elimination contest must be staged between the dates of Oct. 12th and 24th. If you know of any outstanding corn husker and find that he would like to enter the contest, have him get his name into County Agent H. S. Lewis, by Saturday, Oct. 17th. If we have five or more applications by Saturday, a county corn husking contest will be arranged for Friday, October 23rd. Location and details will be announced after necessary entries have been received.

All applicants may receive the rules and all correspondence concerning the contest may be received from H. Stanley Lewis, county agent, Circleville, Ohio.

NEWS OF HOMES AND HOME FOLKS

VOL. 3 NO. 40. Tuesday, October 13, 1931

IT'S ALL OVER NOW

Yes, 'sall over, the 28th Annual Pumpkin Show is now history. It took a lot of time, work, and money, to "put on" a show like we have just concluded. Naturally one asks, "Was it worth while?" If it is not worth the money and effort, why continue holding them? Let's take a little inventory of the results.

What has Circleville citizens ever done that has advertised the old burg more than the Pumpkin Show? The fame of this show has spread all over the good old U. S. A. We have heard a story of a lady that was caught in a slight tangle with the traffic laws of the capital of the Nation - Washington, D. C. by an officer of the law. She was stopped by him and, in a very gruff voice, he said, "Where ye from, lady?" When she replied, "Circleville, Ohio" this big officer put down, do they still hold the Pumpkin Show in Circleville?"

The come from distant points to attend the show. Many times during the past week, we thought that he had a real hot prospect for something. But when we asked if they were from Washington C. H., Lancaster, London, Chillicothe, and even Bluffton, Indiana. But, we're real happy to say, we found many of our friends in the crowd. We renewed acquaintance with many old friends, and made new ones.

Yes, we've decided that the Pumpkin Show is really worthwhile. True, it takes a lot of work, but folks tell us that the Circleville Show is really the most enjoyable affair of the year.

* * *

One of the very many visitors of the Show from Columbus was the salesman from the Estate Stove Co., makers of the famous Estate Heatrola. He brought down some mighty interesting news for those of you that need a Heatrola for a small home. While it is good for you, it tasted like "salts" to us. He authorized us to sell you the No. 15 and the No. 25 Heatrolas at a discount. Therefore, while they last, we'll deliver you a Heatrola - a genuine Estate - that will heat up to three rooms, for only $85.00 or one that will heat up to four or five rooms for the small sum of $95.50. This reduction makes the prices the lowest that the Estate factory has ever made on their famous Heatrola - the one that warms the floor and saves coal. Remember, however, that the stock is limited.

* * *

When F. F. Anderson was in the store recently buying a lady ordered a marker for her husband's grave. He insisted upon it, "REST IN PEACE". However, she ordered him to remove it, but he assured her that it would be impossible to do that but that he could add anything else she might wish. So, he told him to add, "TILL I CALL".

* * *

A gentleman from Bluffton, Indiana, a visitor in the city during the Pumpkin Show, dropped in the store and told us that he had seen a stove in this store that was made in Bluffton, Indiana. For your information, let us say that the only Heatrola made is the ESTATE HEATROLA and that is made in Huntington, Ohio. The Heatrola people say that the BOTTOM WAS NOT BURNED AND IT WOULD NOT HEAT THE FLOOR. We maintain that heating the floor is one of the necessary features of a satisfactory heating plant, that if your feet are cold, you are not comfortable. Better let us install a genuine Heatrola in your home and keep those dogs of yours warm.

A lady on East Franklin called to see about one of our Estate gas ranges. She bought one of those $175 ranges in the size on approval. When she walked upon it and noted the softness - when she realized that this cushion would make her rug wear longer - that convinced her and she kept the pad.

* * *

Judging from the number of inquiries about PYROFAX GAS made during the recent "Bigger and Better" Show, country women are getting tired of using coal, kerosene, and gasoline, with their odors and inconvenience. And why not? They can purchase a Pyrofax gas outfit, including a fine Estate gas range, for the price of an ordinary coal range and operate it at a cost of a $1 or less per week.

* * *

That English Oak dining room suite that we displayed in our window during the show attracted quite a bit of attention. Everyone was surprised that such a fine suite of furniture could be purchased for so little money - $115.75 for the eight pieces.

* * *

We had a lot of fine lands on the streets last week, but our basket of geraniums went to the high school band, lead by Drum-Major Bryson (and didn't he strut his stuff). But, let's not forget the Legion Drum-Corp. Even a hayseed could step to their cadence. Oodles of credit belongs to both organizations.

* * *

During the Show, Mrs. Ralph H. White informed us that the third tank of Pyrofax gas was exhausted on October 1st. Since the 23rd of April, 1930, her gas range has cost her but a little less than 50c per week for gas. Why fuss around with coal or oils when country folks can have the advantages of a city gas range, no matter where they live? Right now, with the prices so low on Estate gas ranges is the time to have an outfit installed. No odors—no dirt - no bother.
